Schroders' distribution policy under the AMIT Regime

The 'Attribution Managed Investment Trust' tax regime (the AMIT Regime) was established by the Australian Government to allow qualifying managed investment trusts (such as most investment funds) additional flexibility around payment of trust income. Historically, fund managers have typically distributed an amount of cash at least equal to the taxable income of the fund. However, under the AMIT Regime, a fund can choose to distribute a level of cash that is different to its taxable income. Under the AMIT regime, fund managers can provide greater certainty and predictability of cash distributions to the end investor.

Schroders' distribution policy under the AMIT Regime and distribution rate guidance

From 1 July 2017, Schroder Investment Management Australia Limited, as responsible entity of each of the funds listed below, has made an (irrevocable) election to apply the AMIT Regime. The table below sets out the distribution policy for each fund under the AMIT Regime and the distribution rate guidance for cash distributions paid with effect from 1 July 2025.

These rates are reviewed annually and are subject to change without notice.

*The expected distribution rate is subject to change from time to time in line with underlying assumptions. In addition, funds must satisfy annual eligibility conditions to qualify for AMIT status. Where a fund does not qualify as an AMIT for any year, the distribution rates in the above table may not be applied.

Schroder Investment Management Australia Limited as responsible entity of the fund may determine the amount of each distribution based on the fund's taxable income and other relevant factors.

** Cash refers to the official cash rate target determined by the Reserve Bank of Australia at the relevant time
