

Schroder ISF* European Alpha Absolute Return

Fund Managers: Bill Casey | Fund update: October 2025

Market Overview

- Equity markets in Europe were strong October. Continued strong liquidity growth, fiscal spending, and hopes for more Fed easing buoyed markets. Q3 reported results have also been largely supportive, despite some signs of macro slowdown (particularly in the labour market) both sides of the Atlantic.
- Despite the impacts from the US government shutdown and soft data from China, the global economic surprise index had a strong recovery in October, we believe having more to do with some recovery following a choppy summer of tariff uncertainty. Hopes for better global economic growth in 2026 are rising.
- As always, in our view, liquidity growth matters most. Global liquidity growth has been strong this year and has helped drive risk assets to new highs. The recent shut down in the US has drained liquidity from the US system and is likely to have some impacts on the higher risk areas of the market, as we can see now in November. How the Fed acts to calm things will matter into year end, such as providing more reserves to banks, reversing QT, and cutting interest rates.

Drivers of Fund Performance

- In the month of October, the fund's net return was 0.8% (C Acc USD) compared to 2.6% for the MSCI Europe (Net TR) index, and 0.2% for the Euro Short Term Rate. Our average gross and net exposures were 209% and 13.5%. Our long book added 2.7% and our short book subtracted -2.0% in gross terms during the month. Cash and FX subtracted -0.1%.
- The fund has a positive position with regard our net exposure. We exited the month with a net exposure of +15.4% and a gross of 209%. The funds volatility is at the lower end of our 5-8% target range, the majority of which is equity specific risk.

Source: Schroders, net of fees, bid-bid, with net income reinvested. EUR C Acc share class as of 31 October 2025. The fund's performance should be assessed against its objective of providing a positive return over a 12-month period in all market conditions and compared against the MSCI Europe (Net TR) index and the Euro Short Term Rate (or an alternative reference rate). The comparator benchmarks are only included for performance comparison purposes and do not determine how the investment manager invests the fund's assets. In relation to the MSCI Europe (Net TR) index, the fund's investment universe is expected to overlap materially, directly, or indirectly, with the components of the comparator benchmark. The investment manager invests on a discretionary basis and there are no restrictions on the extent to which the fund's portfolio and performance may deviate from the MSCI Europe (Net TR) index. The benchmark(s) does/do not take into account the environmental and social characteristics or sustainable objective (as relevant) of the fund. Please see appendix III of the fund's prospectus for further details.

Top stock contributors:

- LVMH, the luxury goods group, was the top contributor in the month following a strong set of results which has triggered hope that the luxury goods cycle is bottoming after a tough 3 years.
- AstraZeneca, the UK based pharma company contributed strongly to the month following a favourable deal with the US administration on drug pricing and investment. The stock has continued to be a strong performer in November after reporting strong growth with the Q3 results.
- Short position in private debt and equity asset manager, was a top contributor in the month following a number of high-profile private debt failures such as First Brands Group and Tricolor Holdings. The manager funds have a holding in First Brands debt.
- Next Group, the UK based clothes retailer, contributed to the month following a strong set of results and raised guidance for profits. Even in a difficult end market environment the business is thriving and taking market share. Its international growth plan (mainly Western Europe) is also performing extremely well.

Top stock detractors:

- Flutter Entertainment, the online sports betting and iGaming platform detracted in the month due to the perceived threat from new entrants in the prediction markets space such as Kalshi and Polymarket. In October / November we have seen a number of State courts rule against the prediction market players in offering wagers on sporting events. The reality is that licensed gaming operators pay State tax (and problem gambling can be managed), and the prediction markets do not, thus the status quo will not last long in our view.
- Short position in global freight forwarder detracted in the month after reporting a higher synergy target with for its acquisition of DB Schenker. The underlying result in Q3 and outlook was however weaker than consensus, as trends in the end markets of Sea, Air and Road freight remain challenged.

- Short position in UK based retailer detracted in the month on relief that Q3 results were in line with expectations following a damaging cyber-attack. The stock has resumed its underperformance in November however, as Oct and Nov data is showing a cautious consumer into the November budget.
- Valterra Platinum, the South African based PGM miner, gave up some performance in the month as precious metals price have consolidated. The miner has several profit growth initiatives mid-term including recontacting its unfavourable 3rd party metal processing contracts.

Outlook/Positioning

- Equity markets entered 2025 awash with uncertainty and nothing has changed as we have moved through the year.
- With regards to geopolitics, the advent a second Trump term brings with it many binary paths regarding relations with the rest of the world, and especially China.
- What has kept markets strong this year despite the many geopolitical and tariff issues is strong liquidity growth globally. How Central Banks and Governments decide to proceed from here and the reaction from bond markets matter hugely. Will the Fed be forced to restart QE? Will China properly open the fiscal books? Can Europe dig itself out of its growth malaise? Central to much of this comes back to the inflation trajectory.
- Things that worry us in the coming year include the corporate debt refinancing wall in 2026 and if there will be sufficient liquidity growth to match it. US China trade relations and tariffs. The risk of a resurgence of inflation.
- We will be focusing on stock / thematic picking yet will manage portfolio risk related to the macro-outcomes mentioned above.

Risk considerations

Concentration risk: The fund may be concentrated in a limited number of geographical regions, industry sectors, markets and/or individual positions. This may result in large changes in the value of the fund, both up or down.

Counterparty risk: The fund may have contractual agreements with counterparties. If a counterparty is unable to fulfil their obligations, the sum that they owe to the fund may be lost in part or in whole.

Currency risk: The fund may lose value as a result of movements in foreign exchange rates.

Currency risk / hedged shareclass: The hedging of the share class may not be fully effective and residual currency exposure may remain. The cost associated with hedging may impact performance and potential gains may be more limited than for unhedged share classes.

Derivatives risk: Derivatives may be used to manage the portfolio efficiently. The fund may also materially invest in derivatives including using short selling and leverage techniques with the aim of making a return. A derivative may not perform as expected, may create losses greater than the cost of the derivative and may result in losses to the fund.

IBOR risk: The transition of the financial markets away from the use of interbank offered rates (IBORs) to alternative reference rates may impact the valuation of certain holdings and disrupt liquidity in certain instruments. This may impact the investment performance of the fund.

Issuer risk: The fund is permitted to invest more than 35% of its scheme property in transferable securities and money market instruments issued or guaranteed by an EEA State / governments of the following country: France.

Liquidity risk: In difficult market conditions, the fund may not be able to sell a security for full value or at all. This could affect performance and could cause the fund to defer or suspend redemptions of its shares.

Market risk: The value of investments can go up and down and an investor may not get back the amount initially invested.

No capital guarantee risk: Positive returns are not guaranteed, and no form of capital protection applies.

Operational risk: Operational processes, including those related to the safekeeping of assets, may fail. This may result in losses to the fund.

Performance risk: Investment objectives express an intended result but there is no guarantee that such a result will be achieved. Depending on market conditions and the macro-economic environment, investment objectives may become more difficult to achieve.

Sustainability risk: The fund has environmental and/or social characteristics. This means it may have limited exposure to some companies, industries or sectors and may forego certain investment opportunities, or dispose of certain holdings, that do not align with its sustainability criteria chosen by the investment manager. The fund may invest in companies that do not reflect the beliefs and values of any particular investor.
